

Unemployment hits a 41-year high

By FRANK JACKMAN
New York Daily News

WASHINGTON — The nation's jobless rate soared to a record 9.8 percent during July, with women and teen-agers bearing the brunt of the worst unemployment since the end of the Great Depression in 1941.

Following months of only slight rises in the jobless rate, the seasonally adjusted rate last month jumped by 0.3 percent, the Labor Department reported Friday. That translates into an additional 360,000 Americans thrown out of work, bringing to 10.8 million the total number of unemployed.

"This new, shocking leap in the unemployment figure is a call for the Congress to take steps immediately to reverse the devastating, discredited economic policies of the Reagan administration," said AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland.

United Auto Workers union President Douglas Fraser, many of whose members are in the ranks of the unemployed, called the soaring jobless figure "an unconscionable price to ask Americans workers to pay for the economic experiments of the latter-day Herbert Hoover's who now occupy the White House, the Cabinet and many seats in Congress."

On Capitol Hill, Democratic leaders blasted Reagan administration economic policies, which they blamed for the soaring unemployment. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., remarked, "Ronald Reagan's recession is now one year old and the end is not in sight." House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said the figures "reinforce the need for immediate action in creating jobs."

He urged Reagan to support an emergency jobs bill, now pending in the House, to employ 200,000 people rebuilding roads, bridges and other public facilities.

Even the president's own economic spokesman was taken aback by the figures. Asked what he thought about the jobless figures, Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, hurrying to a White House meeting, summed BOISE — Idaho's unemployment rate decreased last month for the first time since March.

But the state's jobless figures were still the highest recorded in July during the 22 years the state has kept such records, Idaho Department of Employment officials said Friday.

The Idaho Department of Employment said the unemployment rate, which is a ratio of unemployed workers to the total labor force, increased 0.1 percent in July to 8.5 percent.

But that rate is below the 7.1 percent rate recorded in July 1981, and it marks the first time this year that unemployment has fallen below the rate from the previous year.

State officials do not consider the 0.1 percent increase from June's rate to be statistically significant.

Unfortunately, the decrease from the July 1981 level is not considered significant either, says Janet Hyer, a research analyst with the Employment Department. The July 1981 unemployment figure was swelled by an earlier-than-normal summer shut-down of the Idaho Falls Paper Co. plant.

For the state, the July unemployment rate of 8.5 percent was down from the June figure of 8.6 percent, said Scott McDonald, the department's director. However, the unemployment rate in July 1981 was 6.3 percent.

The majority of the drop in the state rate apparently was due to discouraged workers — those who stop looking for work and thus are not counted as part of the labor force. The labor force in Idaho decreased during July from 429,000 to 421,000.

"Many of these people became discouraged and just stopped looking," said Randy Furniss, a department spokesman. "I expect some of the younger miners (in northern Idaho) are looking for work elsewhere."

Modest employment increases were recorded in the lumber, wood products, agriculture and construction industries. But those increases could not offset the layoffs among workers in the mining and food industries, and in state and local government, department officials said.

It up in two words: "Not good."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the president "remains sympathetic, deeply concerned ... He believes that his (economic) program, once fully enacted ...

... a permanent basis for solution to unemployment problems and will stop these wild swings of unemployment and inflation that have been caused by the stop-and-go economic policies of the previous administrations."

Speakes and other administration spokesmen said the July jobless rate was "lagging indicator, running behind the indications of what is happening specifically in the recovery."

Steadily rising joblessness, resulting from the current recession, shattered the previous post-World War II record of 9 percent when it hit 9.4 percent in April, then held steady at 9.5 percent in May and June. Since the current business slump set in last July, 2.8 million people have been thrown out of work.

The 9.8 percent figure was the highest since the government began compiling month-to-month jobless statistics in 1948. The previous high was an annual unemployment rate of 9.9 percent in 1941. Unemployment has not been above 10 percent since the 14.6 percent annualized rate of 1940.

The breakdown of the figures provided by the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed the teen-age jobless rate setting a new record of 24.1 percent in July, a full percentage point above the previous record set in May. For adult women, the 8.4 percent level in July neared the record 8.5 percent rate in April and May of 1975. For construction workers, the jobless rate broke the 20 percent level, hitting 20.3 percent in July.

The only category not to experience an increase over the month was black workers, which remained at a high 18.5 percent level.

Total employment in July kept in line with seasonal expectations, according to the government, and was at 29.7 million, about the same as June. Over the year, however, the job market has declined by 1.1 million.

"In human terms," said the AFL-CIO's Kirkland, "unemployment at 9.8 percent means a line of jobless men and women 4,000 miles long, stretching from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico."

Kirkland emphasized that the real jobless rate should be 13.6 percent, with 15.2 million people listed as jobless, if discouraged workers and those forced to work only part time were added in.

Planes, shells ravage Beirut

By DAVID ZENIAN
United Press International

Israel forces warned terrified residents to flee for their lives Friday and opened up a devastating artillery barrage across the Green Line into Moslem west Beirut.

The artillery blitz followed a 45-minute air raid during which Israeli jet warplanes demolished a Palestinian Liberation Organization security headquarters in the battered western sector of the Lebanese capital.

The air and ground assaults came as Lebanese Prime Minister Chirak Wazzan reported "a complete" agreement on a peaceful evacuation of about 6,000 PLO guerrillas trapped in west Beirut.

Residents, warned by the Israelis to flee for their lives, streamed from the Moslem sector as the tanks and artillery went into action.

The Israeli tank assault was apparently intended — to eliminate all Palestinian resistance — along the Museum Road, which begins at the Green Line dividing the city.

Israeli tanks massed at the Museum crossing advanced briefly across the Green Line into west Beirut with their guns firing, but later returned to their original positions on the east side and the firing died down in late evening.

High-ranking Palestinian sources said they believed the tank movement was to provide cover for the bodies of Israeli soldiers lying on the road since Wednesday's major battles on the line.

Lebanese sources said Israel has given the Palestinians until midnight Sunday to begin pulling out of the capital or face a decisive battle with Israeli forces. There was no independent confirmation of those reports.

In Washington, Israeli embassy spokesman Daniel Abileah said, "I can tell you with certainty this is not the case. I know of no ultimatum."

The sources also said PLO chairman Yasser Arafat Friday demanded French boats off the Lebanese coast evacuate the Palestinians from the city if an agreement is reached. No other details were available.

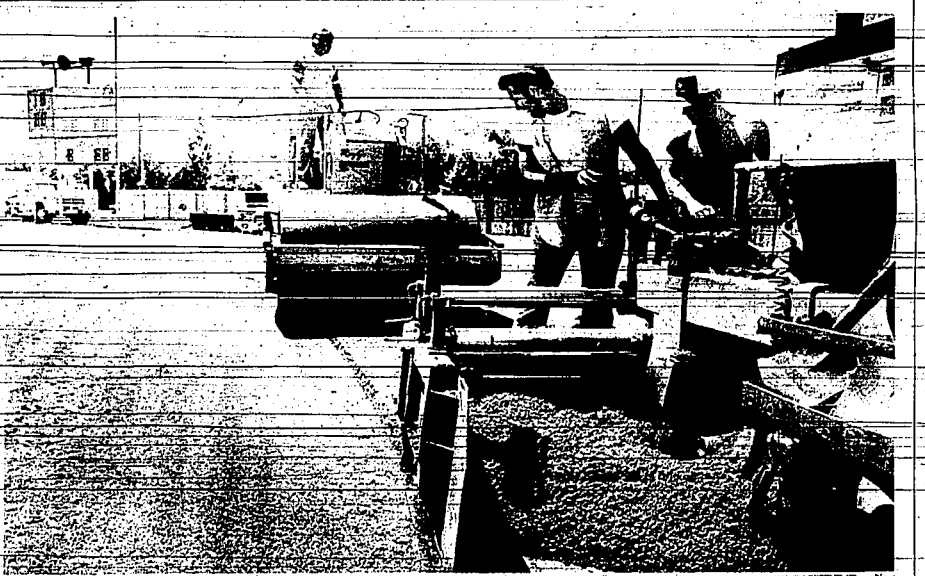

Israel forces Friday signaled their artillery barrage with warnings from helicopters and loudspeakers telling the civilian population to flee for their lives.

Fifteen minutes later, witnesses said, the Israelis opened up along the main street of the Moslem sector of the western half of the capital. Shell after shell systematically cleared a path along the road, setting fire to pine woods near the city's racetrack.

They said Palestinian guerrillas launched a ferocious defense, firing CRAD rockets, many of which landed in Christian-controlled east Beirut.

UPI photographer Fadi Mitri reported shells slammed into west Beirut every few seconds and started a fire in the large pine woods near the city's racetrack.

Reagan puts off vacation to push tax bill

By DAVID HESS and SAUL FRIEDMAN
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

WASHINGTON — In a move to reassert his leadership and quell conservative Republican rebellion, President Reagan decided Friday to postpone his California vacation next week and stay here to push for passage of a $9 billion tax increase.

White House deputy secretary Larry Speakes said the president made the decision to "underscore

(his) full commitment to early congressional action on legislation he considers vital to his program for economic recovery."

Speakes also acknowledged that the president was worried about the violent fighting between Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization in Lebanon.

The president's decision to defer his vacation and "remain in the forefront" of the tax battle came at a time when his leadership on important economic issues was being questioned by many of his conservative followers.

Both inside and outside Congress, conservatives are angry and fretful over Reagan's decision to support a highway-facilities package forged chiefly by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. The bill passed the Senate on a party-line vote and now is in a House-Senate conference.

For three days, disident Republican House members have been streaming through the White House to hear Reagan's rationale for the tax increase. Many have left unconvinced. And a group of New Right conservative leaders issued a stinging statement in midweek complaining about the tax bill.

In his meeting with Republican lawmakers Friday, the president noted the decline in interest rates and said they must continue moving down. "If we are to have economic recovery,"

"If we don't get these spending cuts and reduce the (budget) deficits," he continued, "this downward trend of interest rates could be reversed. While I'm reluctant to raise taxes, the price is not excessive to get the deficit down and ensure continued economic recovery."

Earlier, in a handwritten letter to Conservative Digest editor John Lofton, one of those who is complaining loudest about Reagan's support of the tax bill, the president acknowledged that he had "swallow[ed] hard" before agreeing to back the bill. But, the president added, "we found we could not put last year's coalition together unless we agreed to some increases in revenues. Leaders of the opposition were determined to cancel the remaining tax cuts passed last year and which came into place beginning in 1983."

The president thus implied that his compromise on new taxes this year was induced by Democratic attempts to undo the last installment of his three-year, $749 billion tax cut next year.

Search too dangerous for helicopter

SALMON TUPIT — Forest Service officials said Friday they give county authorities air support in their hunt for three armed fugitives, fearing the marauding thieves might try to shoot down a search helicopter.

Jim Witely, law enforcement officer for the Salmon National Forest, said committing a Forest Service helicopter to the search was an unacceptable risk.

"I wouldn't want to have one shot down," he said. Despite the absence of assistance from the air, Lemhi County sheriff's deputies launched a ground search Friday for the three bandits who were wanted in a series of thefts in the Salmon and North Fork areas beginning a week ago.

The three were believed to be heavily armed, dangerous, and holed up in a remote, rugged wilderness region some 25 miles southwest of Salmon — on the edge of the River-to-Return wilderness.

Deputies took a four-wheel-drive pickup truck into the Silver Creek drainage in an effort to track down the fugitives, Sheriff William Baker said.

He said deputies Brett Barsaoui and Mike Mitchell were checking a report that a truck to the gate at the Senator Mine at the end of the road on Camas Creek had been shot off. Officers planned to search that area, including mine buildings, the sheriff said.

Officials said an adult male and two youths, one about 16 or 17 and the other eight or 10, were believed to be responsible for a series of thefts in the North Fork and Panther Creek areas starting July 26.

Five guns, ammunition, tools, food and an air car were stolen from the Forest Service's Newland Ranch below North Fork, and other items were stolen elsewhere.

The fugitives were believed hiding out near where a campsite containing stolen goods was discovered by officers Wednesday, although Baker said the trio may have slipped out of the area undetected.

The sheriff said he doubted the suspects would try to flee the vast wilderness on foot, adding that the dense timber area in turn could hamper the search. One of three vehicles believed stolen by the trio remained missing Friday.

"It's heavily timbered, mountainous, with lots of draws, and it's steep," Baker said. "It's about everything you would want in a backwoods area."

Baker said he didn't know how long authorities would search for the suspects if Friday's hunt was unsuccessful.

"We'll play it by ear and see what happens," the sheriff said. "Nobody has actually seen them since last weekend."

Woman's burning not spontaneous

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police Friday ruled out spontaneous human combustion in the fiery death of a woman who burst into flames while walking down a South Side street.

Lt. James Moore said lab tests indicate the unidentified woman, who was engulfed in flames early Thursday, apparently had been doused with "some kind" of accelerant.

Arson investigators tested a few scraps of clothing left following the blaze.

"The results just came back from the crime lab and there was a positive reaction for an accelerant of some kind, possibly gasoline," Moore said.

Shortly after the incident, police had said there was no smell of accelerant at the scene, but experts said the scent could have been masked when firefighters doused the flames.

A witness told police Thursday he casually noticed the woman walking across the street. When he looked at her a second time she was aflame.

However, police Sgt. George Owen said, "The witness wasn't paying too much attention. He was sitting in his car about a block or a block-and-a-half away from his girlfriend. He saw her burning and then she fell."

"She was completely burned; I mean scorched," Detective Dan Fitzgerald said. "It was obviously not just a case of her clothing catching fire."

Owen said the body was small enough to be a child's but there was a lot of gold dental work in her mouth, indicating the woman was much older. She was found with her hands in front of her in a "boxer position," Owen said.

Early on, Stein discounted human spontaneous combustion, saying, "There's never been an authenticated case reported."

"In this particular case, we don't know what type clothing she was wearing or whether or not she was smoking a cigarette," he said.

Eight incidents of purported human spontaneous combustion, going back to the 18th century, are listed in reference books, two as recently as 1957.

Nuke protesters charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 40 persons demonstrated Friday on the public concourse in the Pentagon to observe the anniversary of the Hiroshima bombing, and police arrested two women for dumping ashes on the stone tile floor, Pentagon officials said.

The women, who were not identified, were charged with depredation of public property and were released in their own recognizance.

The demonstrators, members of the "Atlantic Life Community," distributed leaflets headlined, "Have you ever heard of an arms race that led to peace?"

Arms freeze supporters to try again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional supporters announced Friday they will re-introduce next week the nuclear arms freeze resolution narrowly defeated by the House July 24.

They claimed Thursday's 204-202 setback was really a victory for the nuclear freeze movement and a defeat for President Reagan and the supporters that will be felt at the polls in November.

After eight hours of debate, the House Thursday rejected the nuclear arms freeze when it approved a resolution that supports President Reagan's strategic arms reduction policy.

Three key nuclear freeze supporters met with reporters Friday. Sens. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., and Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass.

"I will be re-introducing next week the nuclear freeze resolution in the House," said Markey. "I'm gathering support for it and will give grass-roots lobbyists a chance to put pressure on their congressmen."

"Anyone who supported the Reagan policy last night put himself in serious political peril with those nuclear freeze groups in their districts," said Markey.

"What we saw last night was a major hemorrhage in the support for the Reagan nuclear arms buildup and it won't be too long before the members of Congress who have supported that arms buildup will begin to pay the political price."

Justice decries moves to curb courts' power

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court decried attempts to curb the power of the courts Friday, calling proponents of the plans "ideological extremists" and "political opportunists."

Speaking at the annual American Bar Association meeting, state Chief Justice Rose Bird accused "extremists" of pressuring judges throughout the country to rule in favor of the politically expedient rather than follow the law.

While attacks on the judiciary are occurring nationwide, Ms. Bird said the "bullying" of "the bench" in California has been strong in the past several years and includes threats of recall, defeat at the polls and other veiled threats.

Ms. Bird, a consistently controversial liberal judge and the subject of numerous failed recall efforts, leads a court where three justices are facing a tough voter confirmation election in November.

"In recent years, extremists have increasingly attacked the judiciary as a whole in an attempt to achieve some very partisan ends — the ideological domination of the courts and the furtherance of their own ambitions. Their rhetoric may be cast in terms of a responsible and accountable judiciary. But the reality is that these groups want every case decided according to their own narrow views," Ms. Bird said.

Bird also criticized politicians for handing the courts the hottest political issues to decide rather than working out compromises in the executive and legislative branches of government.

"Today, instead of hammering out the tough compromises, the legislative and executive branches often are content to reach a surface consensus and leave the underlying problems for later settlement by the courts," Ms. Bird said.

Agent paid off Mafia men

NEW YORK (UPI) — An FBI undercover agent admitted Friday he paid his Mafia mentor at least $42,000 during portions of 1980 and 1981 and gave an organized crime captain about 40 obscene videotapes to "dispose of as he desired."

Special Agent Joseph Pistone, who used the name "Donnie Brasco" during six years of work within the Bonanno crime family, said the money and tapes were given with the knowledge of FBI authorities.

The testimony came during the conclusion of his cross-examination by attorneys representing five men charged with racketeering and conspiracy in U.S. District Court in Manhattan. Under cross examination by David Breitbart, the attorney for defendant John "Boobie" Cerasanti, the 43-year-old Pistone admitted paying alleged-mobster Benjamin "Lefty" Ruggiero $250 a week from April 1980 to June 1981.

He also admitted the FBI would give Ruggiero money when the alleged mobster claimed he was broke, owed gambling debts or was behind in his rent and telephone bills.

When Breitbart asked Pistone if the government had paid Ruggiero at least $22,000 during portions of 1980 and 1981, the agent said, "Probably."

Average moth catches per trap for 1978, 1980, 1981, and 1982 are presented in the graph. This years catches started slower than in 1981 due to cold weather. Peak moth flight occurred (on the average) on July 28, five days later than the average peak.

Peak flight in Wendell and north of Twin Falls occurred July 23 and the best time to spray beans in those areas would be August 2 to August 12. The optimum time to spray beans in other areas would be from August 7 to August 17. Bean fields with abundant bloom during peak flight will be more susceptible to damage than fields with little or no bloom.

Dylox, Dydrin, Sevin, and Thiodan are all registered for use on beans to control western bean cutworm. The treatment periods mentioned above may be begun approximately 10 days earlier or extended 10 days later if Dydrin is used.

Moth catches and expected average damage to beans for the various areas are presented in the table. These figures represent losses growers can expect from field loss and cleanout due to cutworm injury. The damage figures are based on estimates that half of the damaged beans are left in the field and that one good bean is lost for every damaged bean during cleaning operations. These figures are examples of such, growers should compare bean damage on their farm over the past three years to cutworm damage.

Flights for those same periods and for this year.

Sweet corn growers should contact their fieldman for spray recommendations. Western bean cutworm should be controlled in field corn when one plant in seven shows egg masses or larval feeding.

Feldstein to replace Weidenbaum

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan announced Friday the appointment of Dr. Martin Feldstein, a Harvard University economics professor, to be chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Feldstein, 42, will succeed Murray Weidenbaum as Reagan's chief economic adviser. Reagan met privately with Feldstein Thursday in the Oval Office, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said.

Feldstein is head of the National Bureau of Economic Research at Cambridge, Mass., and an expert on capital formation.

Independent study says

Recovery dependent on farm income

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will not fully recover from the current recession without substantial improvements in farm income, a private economic study said Friday.

The study, conducted by Chase Econometrics Inc. for the National Association of Wheat Growers, said a major portion of those now unemployed in agriculture-related industries would remain jobless unless the farm income and farm support industries are improved.

"The factors which have contributed to the current depression in the agricultural economy are not declining productivity nor loss of competitive advantage to foreign competition," the study said. "Record production and political forces have depressed real crop prices (in terms of 1978 dollars) to decade record lows and subsequently have reduced realized net farm income to 1930 depression levels," the study added.

It said the "collapse in the farm economy" has had a harmful impact on the general economy because "the U.S. farmer supports the largest industrial complex in America: the farm supply and food distribution industries."

Farming and farm-related industries employ about 16 million people — more, according to the survey's count, than other sectors of the U.S. economy.

"It's high time Americans understood the importance of agriculture to their overall economy," said association president Wayne Nelson, a South Dakota wheat farmer. He cited statistics indicating net farm income has dropped 42 percent below average levels of the 1970s and blamed that decline for the reduced value of farm exports and losses in gross national product.

First Lady continues anti-drug crusade

DALLAS (UPI) — First Lady Nancy Reagan carried her fight against drug abuse to Texas Friday, saying those who have kicked the habit through narcotics treatment programs have won the respect of other youths.

During his introduction of Mrs. Reagan, Gov. Bill Clements announced he will propose at President Reagan's request a nationwide extension of his Texas crackdown on narcotics traffic at a governors' meeting next week.

Mrs. Reagan spoke to a cheering crowd of 800 at the Palmer Drug Abuse Program's national convention. In her brief address, Mrs. Reagan appeared touched by the enthusiasm of her youthful audience. About 150 youths sat in bleachers at her feet.

She said the struggle to break the drug habit gave them credibility among other youth.

"So your struggle and your pain may create a force for good," Mrs. Reagan said.

The first lady returned to Washington after her speech. The Palmer Drug Abuse Program was founded 11 years ago and offers services in 16 cities in eight states. It claims to have helped thousands of teenagers kick drug or alcohol habits.

Clements, who is running for reelection, said President Reagan had sent him a telegram asking him to introduce a national anti-drug abuse program at the National Governors' Association Conference opening next week in Oklahoma.

The program would be patterned on drug-trade sanctions contained in a crime package passed in the 1980 Texas Legislature, including stiff fines and forfeiture of property by drug traffickers, fewer restraints on the use of wiretaps, and laws against retail stores that sell drug paraphernalia.

Clements, boasting about the effectiveness of his anti-drug program, said at the recent Southern Governors' Association meeting Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander complained that crackdowns in Texas and Florida had forced more drug traffickers into his state.

"Lamar, that's an interesting story," Clements said he told the governor. "But I really have to say I don't care whether they go to Indianapolis or Timbuktu. I just want them to get the hell out of Texas."

Group readies to block Trident arrival

SEATTLE (UPI) — A "peace blockade" of 25 boats filled with anti-nuclear protesters Friday awaited the USS Ohio, first of the Trident nuclear missile submarines, and its Coast Guard escort.

A group calling itself the Peace Blockade said it planned civil disobedience action upon arrival of the 560-foot, 18,700-ton submarine in a fjord known as Hood Canal en route to its new home port of Bangor.

The ship is due within the next few days, but the Navy and Coast Guard have not disclosed the exact day.

Jim Douglass, who spent 15 months in jail for illegal trespass during construction of the Bangor base, said 25 boats will be placed in the Ohio's path.

Douglass plans to tell the captain to turn around and take the Ohio back to Groton, Conn., where it was built.

The Coast Guard, responsible for the Ohio from the moment it enters inland waters, has the task of preventing Douglass and other blockaders of the group from getting close enough to the submarine to deliver their message.

The Coast Guard banned protesters from going within 1,000 yards of the ship and from the entire 18 miles of Hood Canal from its northern entrance to a few miles south of Bangor. Violators are subject to a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The threat apparently didn't daunt the blockaders, who set up an encampment and have been daily practicing how to maneuver their "armada" into the path of the Ohio and how to rescue anyone who might fall overboard.

A U.S. District Court judge granted two exceptions to the Coast Guard's security plans. Groups who had planned long ago to stage prayer vigils aboard small boats as the Ohio cruised by will be allowed at specific sites near the Hood Canal's entrance.

Top Navy brass, including 3rd Fleet commander Vice Adm. William P. Lawrence, have assured protest groups that the Ohio would not try to "sneak in."

Spokesman said the submarine would come in on the surface in daylight and with "a few hours advance notice."

'Judge Dracula' keeps blood flowing

BOISE (UPI) — "Judge Dracula" has a willing supply of victims, but disgruntled Red Cross officials say the blood-donation sentences being handed out by the magistrate take the volunteer spirit out of their program.

Fourth District Magistrate Wayne Willis' unusual sentencing plan has earned him the vampire nickname, and he has had three people accept his offers for the offset sentence.

Willis said he began handing out the sentences — which are carried out in lieu of serving jail time, paying fines or working in a county park — as part of a search for alternatives to standard sentencing.

Red Cross officials said, however, they were not happy with the sentencing program. Ada County Red Cross Blood Center Administrator Robert Paddis said it took the volunteer concept out of blood donations.

Paddis said he did not doubt the good intentions of the judge, but said, "It really takes the giving of blood out of the volunteer concept." The official said the Red Cross feared that people ordered to give blood by the court would not give blood in the future.

2 candidates thrown off ballot

BOISE (UPI) — Kootenai County-based independent candidates for governor and secretary of state have been thrown off the general election ballot by Idaho Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa.

Cenarrusa said Thursday that gubernatorial hopeful Ronald Hove Sr. and secretary of state aspirant Robert Wasson were disqualified because Idaho law forbids candidates from running in a general election as independents after having run in a party primary earlier the same year.

Hove, a Hayden-Lake naturopath, was swamped by Attorney General David Leroy in the May 25 Republican primary for lieutenant governor, and Wasson, Post Falls, won a Republican precinct committeeman's post but later resigned.

The two conservatives saw the wake of Cenarrusa's announcement that they might go to court to get their names back on the November ballot.

"I can guarantee we will be on the ballot," Hove said. "We're going to be on that ballot, whatever legal action it takes."

Hove contended his candidacy was legal because he was running for a difference office than he did in the primary. He said a precedent for such a course was set in 1980 when U.S. Rep. John Anderson ran in Republican presidential primaries, then appeared on the general election ballot as an independent.

Walker Miller to hoof it again

SALMON (UPI) — Bill Miller says he's planning another walk from Seattle to Key West, Fla. — the latest of several cross-country excursions taken by the Salmon resident.

Miller said his 4,100-mile trip, scheduled to begin sometime this month, is intended to beat the 86-day mark he set for a trip between the two points, but in the opposite direction, last summer.

The walker said he has trekked 10,000 miles on foot in the past two years, and the Seattle-to-Key West jaunt is meant as a training exercise for a 10,400-mile journey from Chile to Nome, Alaska.

What's what

"Turtle" and "girdle" do not rhyme precisely with "purple," but an astonishingly high number of people think they do. Evidently, numerous souls have no ear for real rhyme. They insist, ya insist that "hodgepodge" rhymes with "wedgepodge" or that "circus" rhymes with "footus" or that "recogize" rhymes with "hobbitus." No put-down of them intended. It's just a curiosity that so many don't hear the differences between, say, "dignity" and "affinity" or "hello" and "shallow."

What character has appeared in the most Walt Disney movies? Tavern types win by wagers with this query. Bettors usually say Mickey Mouse. But Donald Duck actually merits that distinction.

A Bible written for the Eskimo refers to Jesus Christ not as the "Lamb of God" but as "God's Seal Pup."

CLOCK HANDS

Q. Is it true the hands of clocks on display in Jewelers' stores are always set at 8:20 to commemorate the moment of Abe Lincoln's death?

A. Nothing to that one. Lincoln didn't die at 8:20, for one thing, and clock sellers had been setting the hands in that position long before his assassination, for another. The setting at 8:20 gives clocks a symmetrical appearance, that's all.

Q. What do the food packers mean when they print "Store at room temperature"? What temperature is that?

A. Can only tell you what the winemakers mean. From 62 to 67 degrees F.

NO TRAVELING

At just about the same time the first colonists were immigrating into Virginia and Plymouth in North America, the Japanese were tightening up on any travel whatsoever in their islands. Either to enter that country or to leave it without permission was punishable by on-the-spot execution.

Q. Who was the famous man with the gold nose?

A. You mean "Yocho" Branson, the Swedish auctioneer? Don't know how famous he was, but it's a fact that he lost his nose in a duel with a Dane in 1568, and replaced it with a nose of solid gold.

First legislation ever passed in Vermont resolved simply "to adopt the laws of God ... until there is time to frame better."

Socialist Party's withdrawal topples Italian government

ROME (UPI) — Italy's small but powerful Socialist Party pulled out of the government coalition Friday bringing Prime Minister Giovanni Spadolini's 13-month-old government to the brink of collapse.

Spadolini, a Republican who led Italy's first non-Christian Democrat government since 1945, called a cabinet meeting for noon Saturday at which he was expected to announce the resignation of Italy's 41st government since World War II.

Spadolini, 57, announced the meeting after flying to Val Gardena in the Italian Alps to confer with vacationing President Sandro Pertini, Italy's 85-year-old Socialist head of state.

Parliament recessed for the August vacation Thursday night, but the crisis meant most politicians would have to scrap their holiday plans.

Even before meeting Spadolini, Pertini announced he would return to Rome Saturday and probably would start consultations with party leaders Monday to try to put together a new government.

But as ambitious Socialist leader Bettino Craxi, 48, was fully aware when he maneuvered the crisis by withdrawing his seven ministers from the government, the chances of replacing Spadolini's five-party coalition were virtually non-existent.

This meant Pertini probably will be forced to call elections in the autumn, a year ahead of schedule, at a time when Italy is floundering in economic crisis.

Spadolini's downfall came at a time when he was in the throes of launching a "super-austerity" program to slash billions of dollars from a $47 billion budget deficit.

The immediate issue that caused the Socialist withdrawal was the rejection by the Chamber of Deputies Wednesday night of a decree that would have eliminated tax privileges for petroleum companies.

Moscow retaliates in swim war

By The Daily Telegraph, London.

MOSCOW — American diplomats in Moscow have been banned from using a beach on the Moscow River in retaliation for the exclusion of Soviet diplomats from swimming and recreational facilities at a New York town, the U.S. Embassy revealed Friday.

Soviet officials told the American Embassy in Moscow this week that American diplomats and their families would no longer have access to a mile-long stretch of the Moscow River that is reserved for use by foreign diplomats, journalists and businessmen.

An American Embassy spokesman said Soviet officials did not directly lift the ban to a similar action taken in Glen Cove on Long Island, but the embassy believes there is an obvious connection.

The mayor of Glen Cove barred Soviet diplomats from the town's beaches, tennis courts and golf course last May after reports that a local mansion occupied by the Soviet ambassador to the United Nations was being used for espionage activities.

The U.S. State Department asked the Glen Cove authorities to lift the ban because it was harming relations

Reagan to give Guatemala military aid

By Knight-Ridder Newspapers

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration, in an abrupt departure from an agreement with Congress to supply only financial assistance to Guatemala, has decided to try to supply military assistance to the Guatemalan military government of Gen. Efraim Rios Montt.

According to Stephen W. Bosworth, deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, the administration wants congressional authorization for $250,000 for fiscal 1983 to train Guatemalan military officers to help fight a Cuban-backed military movement in the Central American nation.

Bosworth said, in testimony Thursday before the House subcommittee on international development, that the State Department may also consider authorizing military sales and additional security assistance to Guatemala.

Earlier this year, administration sources said the United States planned to renew military sales of $4 million in helicopter spare parts to Guatemala. The administration also reportedly had considered granting $50,000 this year for military training, but that plan apparently was dropped.

Congress has been reluctant to consider military aid to Guatemala. The Carter administration stopped military aid to that country because of alleged human rights violations there.

Because of earlier congressional reluctance on military help, the Reagan administration and the House Foreign Affairs Committee reportedly agreed that only financial assistance would go to Guatemala in fiscal 1982 and 1983.

Miner charges Moon's policy hurting banks

State institutions slighted?

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Too much money is being taken away from community banks under the administration of state Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon.

Moon's rival in this election year, Republican Doyle Miner of Star, made that accusation during an interview.

But Moon, a Democrat who has held the office for 20 years, responded later in the day by saying her investment techniques actually leave more money at the community level than would the changes proposed by Miner.

Both candidates cite the same goal — economic revitalization — as the foundation for their opposing investment philosophies.

"Miner is pulling investments away from small communities," says Miner, the 53-year-old director of the state Board of Pharmacy. "She has intimidated over 200 local taxing units — school districts and county governments — into pooling their money with the state to gain higher interest rates."

"But this draws money out of local banks, where it is desperately needed for loans," he says. "By giving up that extra-quarter-percent interest, she is taking away the only thing that makes Idaho for building more homes or helping a borderline business stay intact."

Miner claims that in recent meetings with northern Idaho county officials, several clerks told him Moon had threatened to publicize county financing if the clerks refused to join in the higher-interest-yielding pool.

But it's an accusation that Moon flatly denies.

"We don't intimidate anyone," she says. "We don't even call them (local taxing district officials) unless they call us first."

"We just try to let everyone know that the program is available; that they can pool their money with other taxing districts and the state in order to invest larger amounts at higher interest. I certainly hope nobody has felt intimidated."

Miner maintains, however, that the

Gooding County Fair will cover three days

By JANENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

GOODING — It's fair time in Gooding County.

The annual event will begin this Monday and run through Wednesday. A rodeo, produced by Swanny Kirby of Salt Lake City, also will be staged Monday through Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the fairgrounds.

The fair will include project-competition by area 4-H and Future Farmers of America clubs, including animal-fitting and -showing events, and a fat-stock sale at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Gov. John Evans will visit the fair Wednesday and attend the fat-stock sale. He also will be on hand to crown the rodeo queen that evening.

"Openness competition" in home arts, livestock, farm produce, antiques, flowers and numerous other categories are open to all residents of the state. Only the 4-H, FFA and art show events are restricted to Gooding County residents.

Entries for open-class competition in most categories will be accepted Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. at the women's building at the fairgrounds.

Antiques should be entered Sunday from 7 to 10 p.m.

Susan Bolton, the women's department superintendent, says exhibitors from age 8 through adult may participate in the open-class competition. "Anyone can enter anything," she says, explaining that if an item is not listed in the fair book, "bring it anyway."

New this year is a special senior division for entrants over 65. There also is a youth division in gardening, sponsored by the Pomona Garden, which is separate from the 4-H or FFA competitions. There also is a youth division for flowers, art and homemaking.

A special bread-and-roll-baking contest will be part of this year's fair. Entries must be 100 percent wheat, and the recipe must be included with the exhibit.

Registration in the livestock department closes today, and all animals must be in place by 9 p.m. Sunday.

Exhibits will be available for public viewing after 4 p.m. Monday.

A kids parade will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. in downtown Gooding, followed by the adult parade at 3 p.m.

Helen Fields, left, and Fern Pothier, both of Hagerman, taste test two of the 700 sandwich buns they helped bake

Their roll in life

Historical society women baked their 'buns' off for festival

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

HAGERMAN — Not content with commercial buns, five women of the Hagerman Valley Historical Society decided to make their own for the Summerfest barbecue today in Hagerman City Park.

MJ Crutchfield, Billie Reed, Fern Pothier and Helen Fields had each made bread before, but none had ever attempted to make 700 large buns.

The project started when Crutchfield, the president of the society, was visited by her sister, who is a hot-lunch cook in Downey, south of Pocatello.

"My sister conned us into this mess by expounding the virtues of making our own buns," Crutchfield says. "The virtues were: Cheap, better and easy. She'd help. Made 150 each morning, she said. No trouble. Just happened to have the recipe in her head. We'd be done by noon."

So the women rented the local senior-citizen center to use the large mixer, pans and double ovens there. Singing "Hi ho, hi ho, off to work we go," the "dwarfs went to work" at 9 a.m., Crutchfield recalls.

But trouble cropped up right away with the "mixing machine," as the first of five batches of dough ingredients was measured into it.

"We threw 44 cups of flour in its mouth, and it spit 10 cups back at us," Crutchfield says. "That's why we called (my) sister 'Snow White.' The huge, filled dough pot was heavier than sin. It took two dwarfs to lift it and a third dwarf crawling inside to scoop the goo out."

Noon passed. As the five began to tire, the problems turned from funny to hysterical: Puns about their buns became hilarious.

Seventy-five pounds of flour mixed with water and yeast turned into what Crutchfield calls "a gigantic fungus monster" that grew and grew.

It completely covered a 4-by-6-foot utility table and took all the dwarfs' strength, pushing it back to keep it from escaping through the kitchen door.

Next, the ladies became the "Volga Boatmen," they sang, kneading the mass and singing "Yo, heave ho." After letting it rise, they pinched the dough into 700 little balls.

"We were laughing at our funny-looking buns," Fields says. "We would put the ugly side up, flatter it down and turn it over."

Brushed with egg whites and topped with sesame seeds, the first batch of buns was set on the stoves to rise again.

"Hey, what's burning?" someone asked, running back into the kitchen, they discovered that a burner-control, mistaken for an oven control, had been turned on. It scorched a tray of buns.

Then the trays wouldn't fit in the ovens. Later, the buns did not bake evenly.

By now, about 5 p.m., the women were laughing at everything.

"We were so tired, and it was such a horrible mess," Reed says. "It was so funny. We absolutely were hysterical all day long."

Finally, the buns were put in packages to be frozen. Flour footprints, full of sesame seeds, stretching out the front door, were mopped up. And Crutchfield's sister, with a headache and a sideache, went home to bed.

But when it was all over, Fields was enthusiastic about the buns, praising their texture and taste, and hoping they had made enough.

"I think it was worth it," she says. "Anyway, we'll know from what we hear people say about them."

About 175 pounds of roast beef will be mixed with 12 gallons of Camas-Prairie pioneer barbecue sauce to put on the Summerfest "dwarfs" buns during today's barbecue. The meal will be sold at one of the society's two booths in the City Park during the day's activities, which begin at 11 a.m.

Larry Crutchfield, the husband of MJ, has calculated the cost of the homemade buns and had compared it to the price they will sell for. His figures show a two-cent loss on each one.

"They're losing their buns," he says, wryly.

Counties mull need for taxes to fund indigent insurance

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — County officials from throughout the state will consider two options next month to raise money for a statewide program designed to insulate county governments from costly medical bills from indigents.

A committee, working under the Idaho Association of Counties, decided Thursday to present the options to the membership's convention in late September.

The options, which would raise funds for a statewide insurance policy to pay indigent claims above $10,000, call for:

• Granting counties authority to tax outside the One Percent property-tax limitation.

• Increasing the state sales tax to generate revenues.

If supported by the IAC membership, the proposals will be submitted to the Legislature for approval in 1983.

"We're looking at these, and I think there is going to be more research," says Ann Cover, the chairman of the Twin Falls County commission and a member of the IAC indigent committee.

Earlier this year, the Legislature authorized the establishment of a statewide $2 million insurance policy to "cover" bills for so-called catastrophic illnesses. IAC officials sought the program in response to climbing medical bills and budget restraints imposed by the One Percent Initiative.

Idaho law provides that county governments are the source of last resort for indigents' medical claims.

However, the insurance program was discarded when IAC officials concluded it would be too costly for many counties. At the time of passage, IAC officials believed that 70-cents per capita. At that rate, the bill for Twin Falls County would have been about $7,000.

But medical costs and the number of indigent claims filed statewide have climbed, pushing the estimated minimum cost of the insurance policy to $1.57 per capita.

IAC officials have requested a 5-cent per capita contribution from each county to keep other aspects of the program going, such as an administrator.

Although the program won legislative approval this year, Cover says it's too early to know whether the 1983 session will be receptive to increasing taxes in order to support the program.

"I think it's too early to even get a feel for it," she says. "But at least, we have a couple of options."

One area legislator, Rep. Tom Stivers, R-Twin Falls, already has raised questions concerning the IAC's role in administering public-tax dollars for the program. Stivers has requested a state attorney-general's opinion on the legality of the program.

But Cover indicated the IAC is not planning any changes in the framework of the program.

"Right now, we're looking for funds," she says.

Did seeing nuke test blind Gooding man?

By GLEN WARCHOL
Times-News writer

GOODING — The terrible legacy of "Little Boy" and "Fat Man" has come home to haunt even the tranquil Magic Valley.

Little Boy and Fat Man are not cartoon characters. They are the code names of the nuclear bombs that destroyed the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in August 1945.

Since then, research and testing have increased the terror of nuclear weapons. A few years later, the hydrogen bomb was perfected. Its destructive capability dwarfed the innocuous named weapons that brought Japan to its knees.

The full price of that race to terror still has not been calculated. According to Don Elmore of Gooding, the United States government would rather never admit the horrible cost that extends far beyond the 80,000 Japanese killed in the nuclear blast at Hiroshima.

An estimated 250,000 American veterans and their children may be affected adversely as the result of nuclear weapons detonated between 1945 and 1962, he says. Government secrecy makes it impossible to determine the numbers exactly, but at least a dozen veterans involved in post-World War II nuclear tests live in the Magic Valley.

Elmore — as a 19-year-old Marine — was ordered to witness three nuclear detonations at Eniwetok Atoll in the South Pacific in 1948.

"We were told to go topside and put on a pair of goggles," he remembers. "There was nothing scientific about them. You put them on your head with a rubber strap. They were open — no special seals or anything."

At dawn that morning, instead of the rising sun, he saw something far brighter — a nuclear blast three times the power of the one that leveled Hiroshima.

"The colors are just beautiful," he says, still in awe. "They climb into the sky. A couple of seconds later, you're hit with extreme heat. Maybe 10 seconds later, a loud wind, then the catastrophe."

Three years after witnessing the blasts, he began to go blind.

At 53, Elmore, who is now legally blind, feels through his file folders, using his sense of touch to find specific legal documents concerning his case with the Veterans Administration. He can recall no vital information state, military and facts from his medical reports.

The VA denies a connection between Elmore's military service and his blindness, or the rapid decay of his teeth, which followed later. Therefore, he gets no government benefits for his condition.

Before the Freedom of Information Act was passed in 1977, Elmore could not even investigate his case.

"I was told if I pursued it any further, I would go to prison because I took a secrecy oath."

Due to national security, and the numbers of people involved in testing, the VA has been told not to "open a can of worms" by admitting the military injuries were nuclear-related, Elmore says. "The government fears it ultimately could be liable for the nuclear-related ailments of thousands of civilians living in test-site states, such as Utah, Nevada and New Mexico, he says."

In the past few years, Elmore has been trying to separate his case from his atomic experience. He feels that without the nuclear connection, he has a better chance of receiving benefits.

Ironically, Elmore supports the development of nuclear weapons for national defense.

"I'm not against what we did," he says. "I just don't think we had enough foresight and guidance. They didn't have any idea what the effects of testing would be."

Elmore, who is Idaho Coordinator of the National Association of Atomic Veterans, says he has outgrown a period when he centered completely on his own problems. See BLAST Page B2

Tire blows, 4 hurt in wreck

BURLEY — Four Utah men were injured when a hay truck rolled over Friday on Interstate 84.

The driver, Ernest Hill, 31, of Kayville, Utah, and two passengers — Curt Froerer, 31, and Mike Ward, 31, both of Ogden — were admitted to Cassia Memorial Hospital in Burley. Gage, 29, Ogden, was treated at the hospital and released.

Hospital officials declined to release the conditions of the three men.

Friday evening, pending the arrival of relatives.

According to the Idaho State Police accident report, the mishap occurred at 12:26 p.m., about 13 miles west of the Utah border on I-84.

The right-front tire of the Utah-bound hay truck blew out, the report says, causing the vehicle out of control. The truck went off the right side of the highway, rolled over and caught fire.

Shot deputy improving

BOISE — An Elko County sheriff's deputy, shot by the head of a mobster in a minor traffic accident in June, is improving at a Boise rehabilitation hospital.

Since his arrival at the hospital two weeks ago, Deputy Dennis Lawrence has slowly been recovering to sit, stand and perform activities involving movement, according to Kip Mogridge, the director of community relations at the Elko Rehabilitation Hospital.

Lawrence, 49, who lost his speech and was paralyzed on his right side after a gunshot wound to the left side of the brain, has been undergoing physical, speech and occupational therapy at the hospital.

"It's too soon to tell anything on a prognosis," Mogridge said. "But no one is admitted or allowed to stay in the hospital if there is no hope."

After investigating a vehicle abandoned in a ditch off U.S. 93 the morning of June 26, the deputy tracked the driver a short distance to a rest area south of Jackpot. The mobster, Joseph Breslin of San Luis Obispo, Calif., had been aided by campers at the rest area.

While Lawrence was completing the accident form, Breslin came up behind the deputy and shot him in the head with a .22-caliber handgun.

Breslin, 32, then pulled the deputy's service revolver and began firing at bystanders. Two of the campers pulled handguns of their own and returned the fire, hitting Breslin several times. He died the next day at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Lawrence was rushed to St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise, where he remained in a coma for a week.

Police later learned that Breslin, an orphan who spent most of his first 25 years in prisons and mental institutions, apparently was responsible for the double murder of a mother and daughter in San Luis Obispo earlier this week.

statewide pool has tunneled millions of dollars out of local banks and farms. Boise banks and even out-of-state institutions.

"What we are talking about here is a difference of philosophy... the Republican against the Democrat... I believe that by leaving the money in the local banks, even at slightly lower interest, the state is better helped because it means more loans for homes and businesses, plus more people working and paying taxes."

He also claims that the non-state dollars used in this investment pool are uninsured, because the state treasurer is not insured to handle county, school or highway district money.

"This is a very risky business," he also criticizes Moon for his style of investing non-endowment state funds. "Under that are sitting temporarily in the state's coffers awaiting bill payments."

He acknowledges that banks around the state can bid on this money, but that it usually is offered to loans in amounts too large or for too short a term for banks to use.

"The result is that the bid sheet comes back with refusals by the state banks; and the money ends up getting tossed out of state — to Chicago, New York and even Tokyo (Japan)," he says.

However, Moon says that "all of the pooled money is invested in Idaho, either to banks or to savings and loans. However, I don't have any control over what the banks do with the money once they have it, but the intent is to keep as much in Idaho as possible."

She says that through her pooling system, $2.25 million in interest was raised for local taxing districts, at an average interest yield of 14.66 percent, during fiscal year 1982.

Last year, she says, directly reduced the amount of taxes these districts have to raise from people, she says. "And less taxes means they have more dollars in their pockets to spend, and that is good for the economy."

Last year, 217 cities, counties and other taxing districts participated in the pool, a program Moon got legislative approval for a couple of years ago.

Moon charges that her pooling system takes money away from local banks.

"Except for the smallest banks, most loan money is transferred to community branches from the headquarter bank," she says. "So that money remains just as available for local loans."

Minico wins, Cowboys lose in Legion play

POCATELLO — Twin Falls missed by an inch and Minico won by a mile as the District Class American Legion Baseball Tournament opened Friday.

Idaho Falls nipped Twin Falls 7-6 in 10 innings while Minico, sending 19 batters to the plate in the first inning, manhandled Blackfoot 20-4.

Twin Falls came within that inch of making a great running catch that would have propelled the Cowboys past Idaho Falls. But Centerfielder Brock Miller, after an excellent effort, saw the ball bounce out of his glove when he hit the ground. The umpire ruled against Twin Falls as the ball rolled away.

Meanwhile, Jeff Schow provided four RBIs and a pair of hits but almost everyone else got into the act with at least one safety as Minico sailed easily into the semifinals.

In the night's finale, Pocatello was leading Idaho Falls 8-2 in the seventh inning.

"Twin Falls meets Blackfoot when action resumes at 1 p.m. today. The winner of that one goes against Idaho Falls. Minico and Pocatello square off at 7 p.m. with the winning clinching a trip to state and gaining a spot in Sunday afternoon's finals."

Idaho Falls 7, Twin Falls 6 (10 innings)

Three consecutive doubles by Corey Zorn, Tony Dreese and Greg Talamenza — coming with two away — lifted Idaho Falls past the Cowboys in the first extra inning.

After his teammate spotted him a one-run lead in the top of the 10th, starter Steve Kravitz appeared to have things well in hand. He got Mace Malone on a pop up to short and John Potter on a routine bouncer to first. But Zorn then drilled his double into the leftfield power alley and Tony Dreese, who started on the mound, followed with a shot into the rightfield alley. Centerfielder Brock Miller, nearly corralled the ball, coming up with an "ice-cream cone" catch on the ball hit away from him. But as Miller fell in the all-out attempt, the ball was jarred out of his mitt as the living run scored. Winning pitcher, Greg Talamenza, then followed with the game-winning two-bagger.

It was a see-saw game, dominated mostly by pitching, with Twin Falls scoring in the second on a walk to Greg Kravitz and Brett Semple's single. Idaho Falls tied it to the bottom of the inning and then took command in the third.

Dennis Gray opened with a double and Doug Gourley drew a free pass. Singles by Eric Freitas and Maline, and John Potter's sacrifice fly provided the RBIs.

But the Cowboys rebounded in the sixth to take a 5-4 lead. Shawn Humberger got it started with a hit and Mike Fedelroo lived on an error. Cukrtis Thiemann plated Humberger with a single and Greg Kravitz, to lead the bases. Miller's single scored a pair and Virgil Hurt then squeezed the go-ahead run across.

The tie developed in the seventh when Idaho Falls scores without a hit. Potter drew a walk, stole second, was sacrificed to third, and scored on a sacrifice fly.

For Cowboy Coach Bill Ingram it was another in a succession of near misses that are driving him crazy.

"This has been a long summer because of things like that. This just makes it longer," the coach said. "We played well enough to win. We didn't boot the win away. We just couldn't get over the hump and that's the way it's been being for these guys all summer."

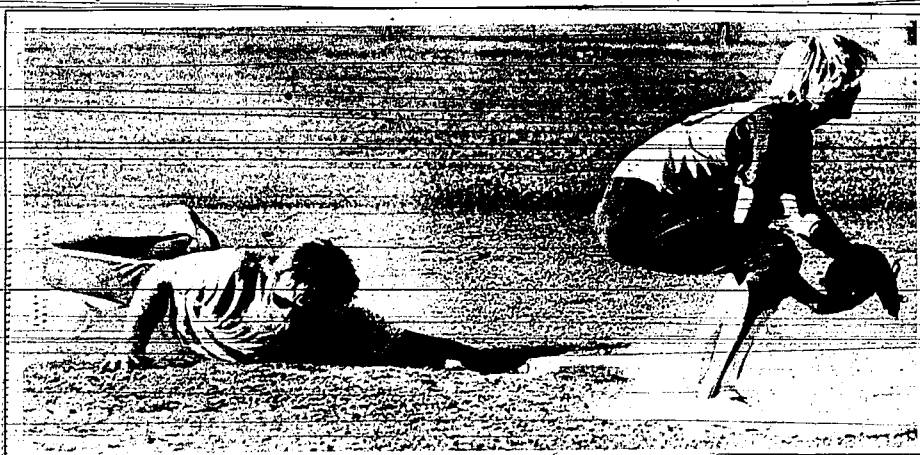

"I thought Steve threw a very good ball game. He deserved to win it."

Minico 20, Blackfoot 4
After the first inning, Minico didn't have anything to worry about. Tracy Woodcock and Lynn VanEvery started it off with singles and rode in on Schow's double. After that a succession of hits and walks kept the point advantage moving before the game was mercifully called after seven innings. Minico went through four Blackfoot pitchers in the opening inning.

Roofers, Plumbers gain C semifinals

TWIN FALLS — The Sun Valley Roofers and Family Plumbing of Kelchum strode into the championship semifinals of the District Class C Slowpitch Softball Tournament Friday night.

Sun Valley, riding a pair of early three-run innings, downed Idaho Power of Twin Falls 8-2 while Family Plumbing posted a shutout for five innings and coasted past Burgers, Etc., 11-0 to move to within a victory of the title. However, there is no C division state competition.

Those two will meet 10 a.m. Sunday at Harmon Park with the inner advancing to the finals and the loser dropping back into a three-way battle to get back into the title picture.

Jeff Bray and Jeff Isom came up with RBI singles to spark the Roofers to a three-run first inning against Idaho Power and Kevin Stark and Mike Kimball provided the RBIs that added three more in the fifth.

Family Plumbing jumped on Burgers early with Clint Down's two-run single highlighting a four-run third inning that opened up a 6-0 lead. Family Plumbing extended that to 9-0 before Burgers could break the shutout.

In C division loser-bracket play, Seven Eleven-Kelchum Club knocked off the Milk Peddlers 13-7 and Mallory Trucking-Burley Inn, getting a homer from Jeff Taylor, ousted Budweiser of Halley 11-2. Decker — Light of Twin Falls slipped past Lincoln Inn of Gooding 9-8 and the Hitchhiker Motel of Halley had a big offensive surge in sending Local 283 of Twin Falls to the sidelines 19-10.

Action will resume at Harmon Park at 2:15 p.m. today Hitchhiker meeting Mallory-Burley Inn and Bud Light taking on Seven Eleven-Kelchum Club. Those survivors will take on Idaho Power and Burgers, Etc., this evening.

In the B division, six more teams went to the sidelines with loser bracket play monopolizing action.

Diamond International whipped Cameron's 12-1. PGO outlasted Circle 4 by 15-14 and Skaggs took a 7-0 decision from Ore-Ida of Burley.

Boise Cascade-Kelchum, Fried Chicken nipped Twin Falls Bank and Trust 8-7 despite a three-for-three effort by Ray Woolley, including a homer.

Seven-up, getting homers from Mike Clarke and Jay Blair and seven hits from Tim Crist and Bruce Bird ripped Coors 15-1.

Book-Magnum and Rich Tuesday each homered to pace Ore-Ida of Valley past Cook Prest Control 8-7.

Dewey Williamson went four-for-four for Cook and Jim Massie added a round-tripper.

The undefeated teams step into action this morning. At 9 a.m., Club 93 meets Falls Brand and Bar takes on Sewer-Water Specialty-Windbreak. At 10 a.m., Quality Wood Products meets Blincoe with Royal Lounge meeting Curran's 100.

Then it's back into the loser bracket with Skaggs meeting Ore-Ida and PGO taking on Seven-Up at 11 a.m., and Diamond International playing Kelchum Fried Chicken and MacMeda-Destruction taking on Shepard's at 1:15 p.m.

Meanwhile, women's Class B action resumed at Rupert's Big Valley park this morning, the women crowning their champion at 7:30 or 8:30 this evening.

Ready or not, pro football begins today

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — Many of the Baltimore Colts rookies taking the field in Saturday's Hall of Fame game, will hope to impress enough to win starting jobs.

However, their counterparts with the Minnesota Vikings have been given no better promises than to just make the roster.

Despite a 7-9 record in 1981, Vikings' Coach Bud Grant says his lineup is nearly set, with only two starters from last year missing.

Grant threatened earlier this week to boycott the game with his assistant coaches unless he was paid, but he withdrew the threat Thursday after winning a promise from the front office that it would pursue the issue at the NFL meetings in October.

Vikings General Manager Mike Lynn said he won't be backing out of coaches' pay from Lamar Hunt, chairman of the Hall of Fame committee.

This will be the second appearance in this game for each of the teams.

The Colts defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1964, 48-16, with a offensive show that still stands as a Hall of Fame record.

The Vikings lost their only HOF appearance, 14-13, to the New Orleans Saints in 1970.

Preceding the game will be a ceremony honoring this year's enshrinees — Doug Atkins, George Musso, Sam Huff and Nolan Olsen.

For the Vikings, the only changes this season will be at offensive tackle, where 14-year veteran Ron Yary has retired, and at inside linebacker, where 10-year veteran Jeff Slemmon was traded to the San Diego Chargers.

Tim Irvin, a second-round draft choice last year, is Grant's choice to replace Yary and third-year man Dennis Johnson is expected to take over Slemmon's position.

Quarterback Tommy Kramer is expected to start Saturday and Grant normally gives his veterans plenty of playing time in exhibition games.

The Colts, who tied with the New England Patriots for the worst record in the NFL last season (2-14), are in exactly the opposite situation as the Vikings, who will undergo competition at several positions, including quarterback.

Kush, himself a rookie, is expected to take a long look at rookie passer Art Schlichter, all-Big Ten at Ohio State.

Hanchey sets record for many amateurs

TWIN FALLS — There's nothing easier, really, than shooting a record on a golf course.

If you need verification of that, ask Perry Hanchey who wiped out a 22 or 23-year standard at Twin Falls Municipal Friday night. Hanchey carded a 10-under par 58 in a round that included a "tip out" of an eagle putt on the 18th and a bogey on the eighth hole. His 58 nipped by one stroke the amateur standard established by Lynn Hansen during qualifying for the 1959 or 1960 Magic Valley amateur.

It also tied the overall course mark set by Professional Cliff Whitte when he was top man at many in the late 1950s.

Hanchey, like those record-setters before him, found no matter how well you shoot, you can still think of places where strokes could have been saved.

"I hit every fairway and I was hitting it close all day," Hanchey said. "I made only two long putts and the rest of them were close."

His bogey came on the par four 36-yard eighth hole where "I had a chip shot and wedge to the green. I hit it short, chipped up to within three feet and then had a straight up-hill putt and missed the fringing putt. I didn't even touch the hole," he said.

He opened the round with an eagle on the first hole and just about closed it that way.

"I had an eight-foot downhill on 18 and the ball dipped into the cup and popped out," Hanchey said. But excepting those two holes it was all fun.

"I credit most of it to my putter — an old Kevin Packard old master. I have six just like it at home and happen to grab the right one today," Hanchey said with a smile.

Overall, Hanchey had 26 putts on the 18 holes and missed three greens.

"It's part of the two things I've never had," Hanchey said of the record — a course record and winning my own club championship.

Putter loses more magic

Floyd clings to two-stroke PGA lead

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Bob Gilder and the scratching sun combined to throw a lot of heat on Ray Floyd Friday, but the 26-year old veteran deflected it all.

Despite losing a little of the magic touch which brought him an astonishing 72-hole 63 on Thursday, Floyd sailed his way to a 1-under-par 69 in the afternoon heat Friday to take a two-shot lead over Gilder midway through the 64th PGA championship.

Floyd's 36-hole total of 132 is 1-under-par for two trips around the Southern Hills Country Club course — established a tournament record and put him in position to shoot the lowest 72-hole score in the history of the four major professional golf tournaments.

The best 72-hole score ever in any of the four majors — the PGA, Masters, British Open and U.S. Open — was established a decade ago by Jack Nicklaus at Turnberry, Scotland.

Gilder, also playing in the worst of the 100-degree weather that again plagued Southern Hills, shot a 68 for a two-day score of 136 and at one point said the day moved into a tie for the lead.

But Gilder, enjoying by far the best of the weather, won the PGA tournament a greenside bunker on the final hole and made a bogey just as Floyd was recording a birdie on the par-5 16th.

"I've been out there 5 1/2 hours, standing out there in the hot sun with no breeze," said a weary Floyd, who walked off the course wearing a red towel draped over his shoulders. "I felt it. I had to, a couple of times, pull away from the ball."

"I had to take a couple of deep breaths. You have to make sure you don't hit the ball when you are not ready."

"If they would have said you can have a 69 and stay home, I would have taken it," Floyd said. "The heat got to me. The toll has been taken. Yesterday I weathered it, but I've had it now."

"It was beautiful in the morning. But the sun seemed to come out when I went to the practice tee and I was in it for the next 5 1/2 hours."

Jim Simons, who was suffering through a horrible slump until arriving in Tulsa this week, and Australian Greg Norman, took advantage of a cloudy and relatively mild morning to shoot a 67 and 69 respectively and finished the day tied for third at 137.

Simons' round was highlighted by a 67-putt bunker shot that went into the cup on the fly for a birdie at the par-3 18th. Norman benched his missed birdie opportunities, but said he felt he had an excellent chance to win as long as he kept hitting his irons the way he did the first two days.

Next at 117 came Jay Haas (who equaled the day's lowest round with a 66) and Englishman Nick Faldo, who shot a 70.

Fred Couples, who at one point in the day was at 5-under, and Len Hinkle finished at 138 and Calvin Peete, Lanny Wadkins, Seve Ballesteros and David Graham were among those who were at 139.

Tom Watson, admitting that he failed to make a charge at the leaders as he tried for his third consecutive major title, was among a group of 141 after shooting a 69. Also that figure was leading money winner Craig Stadler and Jerry Pate.

Hale Irwin joined those at 142 while Johnny Miller and Tom Kite were in a group at 143.

Jack Nicklaus, with only the slightest of hopes remaining in his quest for a record sixth PGA title, shot a 70 Friday for a 141 total, which he shared with Bill Rogers, Bruce Lietzke and Isao Aoki.

Among those who missed the 36-hole cut were: defending champion Larry Nelson (149), Fuzzy Zoeller (148), Arnold Palmer (148), Andy Bean (152) and Bobby Clampett (152).

Despite the heat, Floyd picked up Friday where he ended Thursday by recording a birdie at the second hole. But then he bogeyed the third hole for his first stumble of the tournament. After missing two good birdie chances on the next few holes, Floyd knocked his approach shot at the par-4 ninth to within six feet and made that to finish the round 10-under 58.

He struggled around the back nine as the mercury began to climb, finding a bunker at the par-4 13th and taking a bogey there but getting that shot back at the 16th.

Gilder had an up and down round that included six birdies and four bogeys.

"I made six birdies and still only shot 68," said Gilder, shaking his head. "I think two more 68's could win it. But who knows? Ray might shoot two more 68's, too, and I wouldn't win."

Floyd said the final two rounds of the tournament could well go to the player that can best handle the heat — both literally and figuratively.

"There's a lot of golf yet to be played," said Floyd, who has both a PGA and a Masters title to his credit. "I have to try to stay cool, stay in the shade as much as possible, not practice too long or hard before I tee off."

East German swimmers shatter mark

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (UPI) — The East German women's 400-meter medley relay team broke the world record Friday at the IV World Swimming Championships, eclipsing by almost a second the previous mark established by another East German team in 1980.

The women's team took the gold medal with a time of 4:05.88, bettering the existing mark of 4:06.07. The United States took the silver medal with a second place finish of 4:08.12, and Russia followed with a mark of 4:12.36.

Another East German, Petra Schaefer, pulled away from the field during the breaststroke leg of the women's 200-meter individual medley race to claim a new meet record, only .06 second slower than the world standard.

Schneider, who earlier in the festival set a new world record in the 400-meter individual medley, finished with a time of 2:11.33, breaking the 2:14.07 meet record established by Tracy Caulkins of Nashville, Tenn., in 1978. The showing was just short of the world record of 2:11.72 held by East German Ute Geweniger, who won the silver medal with a 2:13.33 clocking.

Caulkins, the previous world record holder, took the bronze medal with a time of 2:15.91. Schneider trailed Geweniger and Caulkins at the halfway mark but turned in an impressive 39.69 breaststroke "split" to overtake the second and third place finishers. Schneider was pleased with her third gold medal of the tournament. Earlier, she anchored the East German 400-meter relay team to a first place finish.

"It could not have gone better," she said. "I did not think I would be able to come so close to the world record. I concentrated on the breaststroke, that is where I have to work to maintain contact with the others."

Caulkins, disappointed at the third place finish, said she could do nothing during the third leg to keep up with the East Germans.

"I was right where I wanted to be at the 100, but I just didn't have enough to keep up with Petra and Ute," Caulkins said. "It's very frustrating to watch them pull away from me in the breaststroke."

West Germany's Michael Gross also established a new meet record in the 200-meter butterfly with a time of 1:58.85, eclipsing American Michael Bruner's mark of 1:59.38. It also was the West German's second individual victory.

Russia's Sergei Pissenko took the silver medal with a 1:59.91 clocking. Craig Beardsley, of Harrington Park, N. J., the world record holder in the event, settled for third place with a time of 2:00.08.

Gross seemed the most surprised he had won his second gold medal.

"It can't possibly be, what happened to beardsley? I am more surprised now than I was during the 200 freestyle (his first gold medal)," Gross said after the race.

East-German Dirk Richter picked up his country's ninth gold medal in swimming, breaking his own meet record in the men's 100-meter backstroke. Richter lowered the 56.19 record he set in the morning preliminaries to 55.35 Rick Carey of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., won the silver medal with a time of 56.04 and Russia's Alexander Medvedev took third with a 56.41 clocking.

Two Dallas players implicated in 'bust'

DALLAS (UPI) — Federal officers Friday arrested 24 men in an investigation of a cocaine, distribution and a television station said two Dallas Cowboys football players were associated with some of those charged.

Assistant U.S. Attorney William Alexander said the arrests followed the issuance of 34 indictments by a federal grand jury early Friday. All were charged with conspiracy to violate narcotics laws, he said.

The 24 were arrested in the Dallas area throughout the day, Alexander said.

WFAA-TV in Dallas reported sources close to the investigation acknowledged two members of the Dallas Cowboys "have been associated with people named in the indictment." The athletes' names, and the precise nature of their alleged involvement, were not disclosed.

Dallas Cowboys officials were not immediately available.

Alexander said several of the suspects were charged with delivery and distribution of narcotics.

Two of the indictments were against Florida men who supplied the Dallas group with cocaine, Alexander said. Federal officers in Gainesville, Fla., said the two men, identified as Delbert Hopkins and Martin Elliot Lewis, were arrested Friday.

Alexander declined to place a dollar figure on the size of the operation of the amount of cocaine involved, saying "we know an awful lot was sold; we estimate many pounds and lots of dollars."

District Commissioner Paul Ostyn said all prospective officials should register with the Idaho High School Activities Association prior to that date. The first meeting will be conducted by the state office and is a "must" for certification.

Beefstake Stampede nets T-bone rewards

WEYBONE — The Beefstake Stampede, a 10,000-meter run, is planned for 8 a.m. Aug. 21 at Jerome High School. Sponsored by KEZJ, Parker Livestock Supply and Idaho Beef Council, the race offers the first male and female winners their weight in beef.

Record-holder to enter Fifth Avenue Mile

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steve Scott, who holds the American record for the mile, has entered the Fifth Avenue Mile, scheduled for Sept. 4. It was announced Friday by New York Road Runners president Fred Lebow. Scott, who set the American mark of 3:47.69, July 7, in Oslo, Norway, will be racing against defending champion Sydney Marce among other international milers. Scott recently became an assistant coach at Arizona State.

Yugoslavs won't release 'frown' players

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — The Yugoslav soccer association Friday turned down formal requests by five players to leave the country although three of them already have moved to new clubs in Western European countries. The association refused on a 9-7 vote to allow Vladimir Petrovic, Saver Susic and Dusan Savic to play abroad because none of the players involved was 22 years old. International winger Petrovic signed for London club Arsenal, striker Susic intended to play for Paris Saint Germain and Savic, also a striker, was heading for Spain to play for Sporting Gijon. Another two players who were not given permission to play abroad were Zoran Lukic and Dzevad Secerbegovic.

Injunction sought for heavyweight match

NEW YORK (UPI) — Michael Dokes and Don King Productions Friday filed an injunction against the World Boxing Association to prevent them from sanctioning a Mike Weaver-Randy Cobb heavyweight title fight. The injunction terms a Weaver-Cobb fight a flagrant violation of WBA rules and a deprivation of Dokes' right to a mandatory challenge that he earned as the No. 1 contender.

USFL gives up on San Diego franchise

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States Football League has given up plans to place a franchise in San Diego, Calif., in 1983 and, instead, announced Friday it will have a franchise in Phoenix, Ariz. USFL Commissioner Chet Simmons said careful study of the scheduling of non-sporting events in Jack Murphy Stadium in San Diego had convinced USFL officials that a schedule could not be worked out for 1983. "The USFL will continue to work with San Diego officials as the league can return to San Diego as soon as possible," said Simmons, who also thanked Gov. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona and Dr. Russell Nelson, president of Arizona State, for their efforts. The Phoenix franchise will be the first for a professional football team in the area. It will be operated out of Tempe, Ariz.

Judge denies injunction against Raiders

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI) — The city of Oakland was denied a motion for reinstatement of a preliminary injunction against the Raiders' move to Los Angeles Friday by a Monterey County Superior Court judge. "This is really a situation of economic bargaining and always has been," said Judge E. James Leach Jr., in denying the motion after hearing arguments from eight attorneys. The judge added he failed to see any damage to the city of Oakland as things stand now. The ruling came one day after the California Supreme Court denied a motion by the Raiders for a rehearing on eminent domain. The city of Oakland is seeking to obtain the Raiders franchise on eminent domain by way of stopping the club's move to Los Angeles. That case is to be heard in the Monterey County Superior Court.

Four share lead in LPGA Boston tourney

DANVERS, Mass. (UPI) — Vivian Brownlee, playing in the last group Friday, topped in a birdie putt on the 18th hole to tie Jane Black, Muffin Spencer-Devlin and Sandra Palmer for the lead after two rounds of a $175,000 LPGA tournament Friday. The tournament is known as the Boston Five Classic. Brownlee narrowly missed an eagle on the 18th, and her round of 71 placed her and the other leaders at 3-under-par 141. Brownlee, 34, has only one tournament victory in eight years on the LPGA tour. Her round Friday featured four birdies and three bogies. Three players, Jan Stephenson, JoAnne Carler and rookie Terri Moody, are one shot back at 142. Hall-of-famer Kathy Whitworth and 1980 winner Dale Eggeling were among five at 143. M.J. Smith, the first round leader, and Pat Bradley headed a group of five at even par at 144.

Blitz signs Bear's No. 3 draft choice

(c) 1982 Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — The Chicago Blitz brought forth UCLA's Tim Wrightman as the team's first player Friday with owner/coach George Allen proclaiming it a "historic day" for the United States Football League as well as his club. It was also a blow struck across league lines and across the street: Wrightman had been the Bears' property as a third-round NFL draftee, a tight end in the image of new coach Mike Ditka.

But where Ditka had grumbled about the Bears' pay scale as an all-Pro in his playing days with the NFL champions of 1963, Wrightman did something about it.

The Academic All-America looked at Ditka's ultimatum to take the Bears' latest offer and show in training camp by Saturday noon or come around later for the NFL minimum of $22,000 and made what he called "a financial decision." He accepted a two-year, guaranteed offer from the Blitz and will do public relations work and a bit of recruiting for the USFL team until the league's first training camps open next winter.

The Bears had preached that "the best players should play in the best league," meaning the NFL, not the still-organizing USFL. "Then the best league should pay the best," said Wrightman.

Wrightman signed his Blitz contract Thursday night in the Long Beach, Calif., airport before heading for Chicago and his Friday morning press showing. He said he had made his decision earlier in the week but hadn't "finalized" it until he put his name on the contract. No financial terms were disclosed.

(The Bears said it was a $400,000 contract. "An enormous amount of money for a third-round football player," general manager Jim Pinks called it.)

"I thought the Bears might have been a little more liberal," said Wrightman. "We weren't asking for the sky."

His New York agent, Don Cronson, said that at one point in negotiations the two sides were "close... the price of one sky box over two years' time."

But the Bears also stayed with that offer until the NFL agreement with the National Football League Players Association expired July 15. From that date, the NFLPA claimed sole bargaining rights for all unsigned players.

"I had lost my right to negotiate directly with the Bears, and I didn't want to be in a position where somebody else was making my choices for me," Wrightman said.

He was mindful, he said Friday, of how unhappy first-round draftee Jim McMahon had been after signing what the quarterback regarded as a bad contract with the Bears under pressure of the July 15 deadline.

Meanwhile, the Blitz had what Allen called his "California Connection" working on Wrightman. Led by Blitz ownership partner Bill Harris, a Southern California construction man who had played for Allen at Whittier College, the Connection began convincing Wrightman of the advantages of joining the Blitz.

Wrightman was not difficult to convince. He had known Allen and said he preferred to play for him. The Connection also offered more money.

"We probably wanted him more than the Bears wanted him," said Harris.

Allen — liked the history of it — "because we never thought we'd get a player of his ability and character."

Because Wrightman is "the first credible player, the first player of major significance signed by the USFL."

Allen, who built the defense for the 1963 champion Bears and parted bitterly with owner/coach George Halas, insisted the signing of a Bear draftee as his USFL "first" was a coincidence.

"It could have happened if he had been drafted by Cincinnati or St.

Louis or New York," he said. "I coached him in a bowl game last year, and he lives a short distance from me; he's from San Pedro and I'm from Palos Verdes. The Bears hadn't contacted him for seven or eight weeks."

"We were very fortunate. I think every team in the USFL should have one credible player. But we're not trying to start a bidding war with the NFL."

Wrightman began working the public relations portion of his Blitz contract speaking to all of the Bears. "I have nothing but respect for Mike Ditka and the Bears organization," he said. "I'm sure they have no hard feelings toward me, and I have none between business people. The Bears have to look after the Bears, and Tim Wrightman has to look after Tim Wrightman. And I had a chance to play on a winning team with coach Allen."

With the press on hand, Allen added a few tidbits: His son, Bruce, will be general manager of the Blitz. There will be a free agent tryout Aug. 21. The USFL doesn't expect to begin snatching underclassmen off college teams in the manner of the NBA and, for seniors pulled out of school to play football in the spring, the USFL plans to send them back to class in the fall with tuition paid.

Shift to Bears 'unretires' linebacker

By United Press International

Linebacker Bruce Hutter left what he called a zoo Friday to live with the Bears — Chicago variety, that is.

One day after he walked out of the Cleveland Browns' training camp in Kirtland, Ohio, claiming it was a "zoo," Hutter "unretired" upon learning that he had been traded to the Chicago Bears.

Hutter announced his retirement and walked out of camp Wednesday because he was upset that the Browns awarded starting jobs to rookie Chip Banks and — Canadian — Football League transfer Tom Cousineau.

before camp started. Hutter taped a note to his locker, calling the camp a "bleeping zoo."

One Browns' player said Hutter also was upset with the fat contracts awarded to Banks and Cousineau.

The Browns will receive a 1983 draft choice for Hutter from the Bears, dependent upon the amount of playing time he gets in Chicago. The Browns obtained Hutter from Dallas last August for a sixth-round draft choice.

At Green Bay, Wis., Packer Coach Bart Starr, suffering from laryngitis, said through a spokesman that he didn't know whether linebacker George Cumby and cornerback Mark

Lee will be held out of Saturday's scrimmage with the Buffalo Bills which is expected to draw a near capacity crowd of 56,189 at Lambeau Field.

Linebacker Mike Douglass, the club's Most Valuable Player the last two years, and starting quarterback Lynn Dickey have already been ruled out of the scrimmage because of minor injuries.

Cumby was kicked in the knee Thursday in practice and Lee is ailing with a pulled groin muscle. If necessary, Lee's spot will be taken by veteran Estus Hood.

Cincinnati Bengals' wide receiver Don Bass said he'd like to be traded. Bass said out most of last season with a knee injury.

"I know I'm not satisfied here as a player," said Bass, who has been bothered in training camp by a pulled leg muscle. "I would think I could help some teams a great deal."

The Philadelphia Eagles Friday waived rookie running back Homer Jones from Brigham Young.
